Three different styles of encounter worksheets, one with fields for all monster stats for adventures that don't provide them, the others for use when monster stats are readily available in adventure text.

you to Gary, Dave, and

Thank you for downloading Mithgarthr Entertainment's encounter worksheets for Fifth Edition! You will find three different versions of the worksheet. The first is meant to have one sheet per encounter, and it is form fillable for GMs to populate with each encounter's monster stats before each game session. There is room for up to four different monster types per fight.

The second is also meant to be used one sheet per encounter; however it doesn't have space for each monster's stats. As such there is room for up to eight monster types per encounter.

The third version is meant to be used one sheet per session. In my home games, to speed things up, we only roll initiative once at the beginning of the game. This sheet has space for the evening's initiative, then room for fifteen encounters.

I hope you find these as useful as I have!
